House Turns Back Raid on Highway Trust Fund

Best news from Washington last week was the defeat in the House of Representatives of a Senate-passed plan to take $800 million out of the Highway Trust Fund and spend it for mass transport—commuter railroads and buses—in the metropolitan centers.

Disregarding the Senate action the House voted $8 billion for highway use only. It did this in spite of urging by President Nixon and the big-city congressman to siphon off millions of road money for non-road purposes.

The Highway Trust Fund is supported by that extra federal tax which automobile drivers have to pay when they drive up to a gasoline service station. When the federal levy was put on motorists they had the solemn pledge of Government that it would be locked up in the Highway Trust Fund and never spent for anything but roads. The primary purpose was to finance the Interstate Highway System.

But the Interstate System is nearly complete, therefore there are political voices including the President's which are saying "Why let all that lovely money go to waste? Put it to work in the big cities for commuter rails and buses"—money collected from you automobile drivers and supposed to be escrowed for road use alone!

The Interstate System may be nearly finished but vast sums will still be needed for maintenance and additions to the road network. You know this because the brand new I-30 through our section is already showing signs of wear, with an increasing number of bumps, notably in the section near Gurdon.

Since the House and Senate actions are contradictory the final road fund bill will have to be hammered out in conference. But a Wall Street Journal report Oct. 6 said there was little chance the conferees would allow the $800 millions to be taken out of the Highway Trust Fund for urban transit—and the raid has been headed off for this congressional session at least.

But the issue will bear watching in future sessions. It's a battle between lobbyists for the big cities and the lobby which is looking after good roads for all America.

Glaze turns attention to Kelly Bryant

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — If Secretary of State Kelly Bryant certifies nominees of the American party to county election commissions, Thomas A. Glaze of North Little Rock said Monday he would ask Circuit Court to show cause why Bryant should not be held in contempt of court.

Glaze is attorney for the plaintiff in a suit seeking to keep the party's presidential ticket off the Arkansas November general election ballot.

Circuit Court Judge Warren E. Wood of Pulaski County ruled that the party had not complied with a 1971 law establishing requirements for forming a political party and he ordered Bryant not to certify the nominees. The state Supreme Court upheld Wood's ruling.

However, the party is trying a new approach to get its nominees on the ballot. A party attorney said in a letter to Bryant that the party was a "group" instead of a political party and that Arkansas law provided a means for "groups" to put their candidates' names on the ballot. The attorney, Art Givens Jr. of Sherwood, said the party had complied with that law and that it was Bryant's constitutional duty to certify the nominees of the American party "group."

Conviction of editor is overturned

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — An Arkansas Supreme Court ruling Monday that overturned a contempt citation against a Texas newspaper editor has been hailed as a "decision for freedom of the press and freedom of information."

The praise was offered by Walter E. Hussman, editor and publisher of the Texarkana, Tex., Gazette, after the Supreme Court ruled that no court "has the power to prohibit the news media from publishing that which transpires in open court."

The court's unanimous decision, written by Associate Justice Conley Byrd, rejected the finding of Circuit Court Judge John W. Goodson of Texarkana that Harry Wood, editor of the Gazette, was in contempt for refusing to withhold publication in the newspaper's morning edition of Feb. 17, 1972, of a jury conviction in the first-degree rape trial of Eugene E. Sumler. The ruling also said that a fine imposed on Wood by Goodson in the case was wrongfully assessed.

Contacted after the Supreme Court ruling, Goodson said he would have no comment until after he had read the opinion. "I recognize that the Supreme Court is the supreme court of Arkansas," Goodson said.

Wood said of the ruling: "I think it's great. It makes me feel a lot better. I'm just glad to get it over with."

Jimmy Jones of Little Rock, president of the Arkansas chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society, said he was delighted with the decision and that it "reaffirms 1st Amendment freedoms."

The state Supreme Court normally will not decide a constitutional issue if a case can be disposed of without a settlement of the constitutional question, but it did so in this case even though there were several technical issues on which the case could have turned.

"We are extremely pleased that the Supreme Court decided this case on the constitutional question," Hussman said. "We feel it strengthens the 1st Amendment rights of all newspapers in Arkansas, as well as the public's right to news and information."

"We undertook the appeal solely for a clarification of 1st Amendment rights and we feel the court's decision strengthens the public's right to know," Hussman said.

When the Sumler verdict was returned in open court, Goodson requested that the Gazette delay publication of the verdict because other defendants in the same case were going on trial. He said he wanted the jurors in those trials to reach independent decision without being influenced by knowledge of what a jury had done in Sumler's trial.

After the Gazette published the verdict, Goodson ordered Wood to appear March 7 to show why he should not be held in contempt. Wood sent an attorney, instead, but on March 8 Wood did appear in person.

On March 8, Goodson found Wood in contempt for publishing the verdict, but suspended the fine of $200 and costs and 60-day jail sentence. He also found Wood in contempt for failing to appear personally on March 7 and did not suspend a fine of $100 and costs.

Technical issues in the case included the question of jurisdiction of an Arkansas judge over a newspaper published in Texas and an editor who was a Texas resident. The Texas-Arkansas state line runs through the middle of Texarkana.

Governor speaks at dedication of new carpet mill

Gov. Dale Bumpers was the dedicatory speaker at the open house Monday afternoon at Spears Carpet Mills, Inc., which started production in July. At right Company president Grayson Spears escorted Bumpers on a tour of the massive plant, which employs about 75 persons. More than 250 persons attended the dedication ceremony at the plant and went on guided tours of the carpet mill. Bumpers, who was introduced by state Sen. Olen Hendrix of Prescott, commended Hempstead County for its "phenomenal growth" during the past few years. Spears presented the "welcome," and George Frazier was the Master of Ceremonies. The $1.3 million carpet mill, located on State Highway 29 in the North Industrial Park, includes 21 acres and a 75,000-square-foot metal building. A cultured high-loop pattern, a shag-type and a new "splush" type are being manufactured. Spears estimated that production during the first year to be in excess of 800,000 square yards of finished carpet and first year sales to exceed $2,400,000. (See other photos on page 2.)

Kissinger extends Paris visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger went into an unprecedented third day of talks with the North Vietnamese in Paris today, then took time out to call on the French foreign minister, Maurice Schumann.

The presidential adviser on national security affairs went to the foreign minister with Arthur K. Watson, the U.S. ambassador to France.

Reports in Paris said Kissinger is believed to have discussed Vietnam with Schumann.

Kissinger conferred with the North Vietnamese envoys to the Paris peace talks Sunday and Monday and decided to stay over for a third day to continue the meetings.

"Apparently they have something to talk about," White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Monday in announcing extension of the talks. He added that the United States and North Vietnam have agreed not to discuss the substance of negotiations.

But diplomatic observers read the extension as evidence that, if nothing else, Kissinger, Le Duc Tho and Xuan Thuy have stepped up the pace of negotiations.

In Saigon, meanwhile, South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, whose future has become a pivotal part of the negotiations and the broader peace talks in Paris, met for 45 minutes with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker.

Again, U.S. officials would not discuss the substance of the talks.

A flurry of reports in recent days that peace might be near has been dismissed by the White House and the North Vietnamese as speculation.

Kissinger is expected to return to Washington tonight, at about the same time that Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern goes on television to outline his plan for ending the war.

The extended Kissinger trip to Paris—his 18th over a three-year period—and Bunker's session with Thieu raised still more speculation.

Last Thursday, while Nixon was telling newsmen that the peace talks had reached a sensitive stage, the chief Viet Cong delegate to the Paris talks was saying that the two sides "remain very far apart on political and military questions."

The latest proposal for discussion at the Paris peace talks, which resume Thursday, was made by the Viet Cong. It calls for the Thieu government to resign in favor of a tripartite regime composed of representatives of Viet Cong forces, neutrals and the Saigon administration, minus personnel connected with Thieu.

The United States said such a plan would lead to "prolonged warfare and communist dictatorship by the North."

The Viet Cong also demands total U.S. withdrawal, a halt to bombing and mining of the North, and renunciation of support for Thieu.

SPOCK ADVOCATES TOTAL WITHDRAWAL

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Dr. Benjamin Spock, presidential candidate of the People's Party, says total withdrawal is the answer to ending the Vietnam war.

"The answer is complete withdrawal. Just tell them over there that it was all a big mistake and we're moving out."

Historic confrontation shaping up over debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A historic confrontation between President Nixon and Congress over control of the federal purse is shaping up in the debate on the $350-billion spending limit Nixon seeks.

The President personally led what a White House spokesman called an intensive weekend lobbying effort to win the initial House vote, scheduled late today, in a spending-limit fight that could delay the adjournment of Congress.

Nixon promised in a nationwide political radio broadcast Saturday that his "spending ceiling would be absolute insurance that no new taxes will be required."

He did not put that particular statement in a time reference, though at another point in the speech, he said, "My goal is not only no tax increase in 1973, but no tax increase in the next four years."

The spending ceiling Nixon has proposed would apply only to the present fiscal year which began last July 1.

House Speaker Carl Albert said it would be "the biggest mistake of this century" for Congress to approve Nixon's proposal to give him unrestricted authority to decide which federal programs to cut to meet the $350-billion limit.

House leaders support an alternative that would authorize the President to recommend program cuts for a $350-billion limit but leave the final decision on whether to approve them to Congress.

"This is the biggest assault a President has ever made in peacetime on the legislative authority of the Congress of the United States," Albert said.

The cuts would trim the $356 million already approved by Congress. Other appropriations measures for the current year are pending.

But Nixon's advisers argued during congressional hearings that Congress failed in past efforts to limit spending because its 535 members cannot agree on which programs to cut.

The President also personally urged congressional leaders at a regular meeting last week to accept his proposal, the White House aide told newsmen Monday.

Further, he said, businessmen, particularly in home-building and related industries, lobbied congressmen in their districts across the country over the weekend to accept the President's proposal.

Campaign sabotage reported by Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Post says the FBI has established that the Watergate bugging incident developed from a campaign of political spying and sabotage on behalf of President Nixon's re-election.

And, the newspaper said in today's editions, the "massive" campaign was directed by White House officials and the Committee for the Re-Election of the President.

The newspaper reported that White House aide Ken W. Clawson has acknowledged fabricating a letter that damaged the presidential campaign of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie—a statement that Clawson now denies.

The newspaper quotes law-enforcement sources as saying the Clawson letter is the best example of a Republican strategy of sabotage directed at Democratic presidential contenders as early as 1971, before the primary campaigns began.

The Post said FBI agents have established that the break-in and alleged bugging of Democratic national headquarters also stemmed from the same sabotage campaign directed by officials of the White House and the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

Another example, the Post said, was alleged attempts by Donald Herbert Segretti to recruit GOP undercover agents to disrupt Democratic activities.

The Post said Segretti, a former Treasury Department lawyer who now maintains offices in Marina Del Rey, Calif., has been identified in FBI reports as an operative of the Nixon campaign.

A spokesman for the Nixon committee, DeVan L. Shumway, said, "The article in the Post is a piece of fiction."

The Post quoted investigators as saying the sabotage campaign included: "Following members of Democratic candidates' families; forging letters and distributing them under the candidates' letterheads; leaking false and manufactured items to the press; throwing campaign schedules into disarray; seizing confidential campaign files; and investigating the lives of dozens of Democratic campaign workers."

Clawson, deputy director of White House communications, could not be reached for comment Monday night. A newsman who telephoned his home was told via the White House switchboard that he had retired for the night and that his wife did not wish to be awakened.

The document Clawson allegedly wrote was a letter to the editor of the Manchester (N.H.) Union Leader. It accused the LONDON (AP) — Former Prime Minister Harold Wilson says owners and editors of British newspapers are inhibiting the free and fair publication of political news and views.

Wilson's remark Monday came after a long-smoldering hostility between followers of his opposition Labor party and the pro-Conservative press flared up at the windup of Labor's annual convention in Blackpool last week. Some Laborites accused the mass media—including television—of being biased.

"It is impossible to believe that the whole company of British journalists—many of whom are Labor party supporters—are so unanimous as a regular reading of the newspapers suggest or that they lacked courage," Wilson said.

He added that "in part, this inhibiting influence on the free expression of opinion reflects the still powerful voice of individual proprietors, in part the conviction of individual editors."

VC, N. Viets hang onto hamlet string

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces held on to a string of hamlets 14 to 22 miles north of Saigon today, and the South Vietnamese command acknowledged that its troops were making no effort to drive them out.

In the air war, U.S. fighter-bombers hit North Vietnam with more than 300 strikes Monday for the fifth successive day. The U.S. Command said more than 330 strikes were flown.

The targets included the MIG base at Yen Bai, 80 miles northwest of Hanoi, where Air Force pilots reported several explosions, and the Thai Binh army barracks 37 miles southwest of Haiphong, where Navy pilots reported destroying 16 buildings. Nearly 100 U.S. B52s attacked targets around the North Vietnamese port of Dong Hoi, 45 miles north of the demilitarized zone, and around the South Vietnamese cities of Saigon, Kontum, Quang Ngai, Da Nang, Hue and Quang Tri. The U.S. Command said their targets were supply caches, troop positions and staging areas.

Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported from the front north of Saigon that in five days Communist forces have occupied at least seven hamlets and one village along an eight-mile stretch of Highway 13.

South Vietnamese troops told Jensen they had been given no orders to move against the enemy, and Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, the spokesman for the South Vietnamese command in Saigon, gave this explanation: "We are surrounding the enemy to prevent them from moving to other places. These are very populated areas, and it is better to prevent the enemy from spreading and mingling with the civilians."

The Saigon command reported 22 enemy troops killed in two clashes in the area Monday and another 38 killed in Tay Ninh province 45 miles northwest of Saigon. South Vietnamese losses were 19 men killed and 34 wounded, the command said.

20-point platform released by Tucker

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Jim Guy Tucker of Little Rock, Democratic nominee for attorney general, released a 20-point platform Monday that included a provision calling for restoration of the death penalty in certain cases.

"The attorney general's office should work with the prosecutors, legislators and judges of the state to attempt to establish guidelines and standards for use in the decision-making as to when the death penalty should be requested and when the death penalty should be waived," Tucker said.

Tucker's Republican opponent, Ed Bethune of Searcy, has criticized Tucker for allegedly not making his stand on the death penalty clear. Bethune has accused Tucker of telling one group he believes a certain way on the death penalty while telling another group he believes another way.

In another point in the platform, Tucker said the attorney general should work with the state Department of Education to design and implement a statewide curriculum at the junior and senior high school level on law and the role of law in society.

He said the program should consist of a professionally designed course including classroom experience and, when practical, utilize observation of the criminal justice system in operation. He said the program should inform young people of the role of police, courts and correctional systems. He said it should be established to fit into every local school system in the state.

Tucker said similar programs already existed at St. Louis and in Florida.

He said about 80 per cent of those prosecuted in his 6th Judicial District were between 15 and 25 years of age. He said 15 per cent of all persons incarcerated today are under 21.

"Youth cannot learn what law and society expects and requires of them without being exposed by education to these obligations and responsibilities," Tucker said.

On other points, Tucker said the attorney general should work to strengthen the state consumer protection code, the attorney general should have one assistant permanently assigned to pollution control problems, the attorney general should continue consolidation of state legal services begun by Atty. Gen. Ray Thornton under Act 38 of 1971, and the attorney general's salary should be set by the General Assembly.

Maine senator of condoning a racial slur against Americans of French-Canadian descent by referring to them as "Canucks."

The letter and editorial attacks on Muskie by the Union Leader's publisher, William Loeb, prompted Muskie to make the now-famous tearful speech denouncing the newspaper and Loeb in front of the newspaper office.

Then the front-runner for the Democratic nomination, Muskie subsequently began to slip in the public-opinion polls and fared worse than expected in the New Hampshire primary in March.

The Post said information in the files of the FBI and Justice Department show that Republicans carried out a massive campaign of spying and sabotage during the primaries to throw their opponents into such disarray they could not mount a viable campaign against Nixon.

The newspaper quoted federal investigators as saying the GOP operation far surpasses the normal level of campaign intelligence-gathering.

The Post said three attorneys told of being promised "big jobs" in government if they would act as undercover agents for the Nixon campaign and carry out various maneuvers to disrupt Democratic activities.

The Post said all three refused the offer.

Proxmire relates threat of assassination, changed route of jogging to avoid sniper

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire says he was threatened with assassination during the debate on the controversial Lockheed loan guarantee and changed the route of his morning jog to work to avoid "an easy sniper pickoff."

Proxmire, the Senate's most famous jogger, made the disclosure in a new book in which he criticizes alleged military and domestic federal waste and calls for an end to most secret hearings in Congress and the executive branch.

The Wisconsin Democrat had opposed the Nixon administration's ultimately successful bill to provide a $250 million loan guarantee to the Lockheed Aircraft Corp., the nation's largest defense contractor.

In his book, entitled "Uncle Sam, Last of the Bigtime Spenders," Proxmire said threats to his life ultimately proved groundless but were taken seriously at the time because of the heat aroused by congressional debate.

Chief, patrolman charged in alleged beaten

HELENA, Ark. (AP) — Police Chief Preston Bottorff and Patrolman S. B. Mackey Jr. of the Marvell Police Department were charged Monday with two counts each of assault and battery.

The charges were ordered filed by Municipal Court Judge John L. Anderson of Helena following a four-hour hearing.

Pros. Atty. Gene Raff requested the hearing after Larry Golston and Clyde Bell, formerly inmates of the Marvell jail, complained they had been beaten while in jail.

Anderson set bond at $250 and Mayor T. H. White of Marvell signed bond with the officers.

Golston and Bell were in jail on misdemeanor offenses and were released after working out their penalties. They testified at the hearing but Bottorff and Mackey did not.

Most of the hearing focused on polygraph examinations given to the four men by officers of the State Police Criminal Investigation Division. The four signed waivers permitting introduction of testimony about the test results.

"I believe the time has come when our court system not only here in Arkansas but throughout the United States should re-evaluate the use of polygraph examinations and the admissibility of polygraph results in judicial proceedings," Raff said.

He said evidence was "overwhelming" that polygraph was a reliable factor in evaluating the credibility of witnesses when proper safeguards are in use.

Testimony about the polygraph results was that Golston and Bell were struck twice, but exaggerated the extent of any beating they suffered. It also asserted that the two officers, who denied that they were guilty of brutality, were not entirely truthful during the polygraph examination.

Armed man takes pizza parlor

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — A man armed with two gas-line bombs and a pistol took over a crowded downtown pizza parlor for two hours Monday night before being disarmed by two of his brothers, police said.

Police Chief Robert Pollock identified the man as Joseph Mullins, 23, a laborer and a Vietnam veteran who served in the Asian conflict for two years in the Army.

A complaint charging Mullins with assault with a deadly weapon was signed shortly after his capture, Pollock said.

The officer said Mullins wal-kinged into Chance's Pizza Parlor during the supper hour, brandished his weapons and ordered the building emptied. Pollock said the man then approached owner Chancey J. Poliski and threatened to shoot him.

Shortly after the building was evacuated and police summoned, Pollock said, two brothers of Mullins, John, 28, and Tom, 20, ran into the restaurant, grabbed the bombs and pistol and ran out. Police stepped in and made the arrest. "He was just mad at the world," Pollock said of Mullins.

The police chief said the building was surrounded by 20-30 officers and half a dozen firemen. Pollock said Mullins would be arraigned Tuesday.

Take a look at the West hand only. Your partner opens with one heart. South overcalls with one spade and you give a limit jump raise to three hearts. The bidding continues with three spades; four hearts by your partner; and four spades by South.

It is obviously your hand. Your partner has opened the bidding and you are looking right at two aces. What should you do?

You don't want to bid five hearts. Your partner can have lots of good, sound opening bids that leave you no play for 11 tricks. Then, do you double?

The West player we were watching doubled. East left the double in and South was promptly set one trick at his four-spade contract.

"How could I tell that we were cold for six hearts," asked West.

"You couldn't," was our reply. "However, you could have let your partner into the game. All you had to do was pass."

If West had passed East would have gone on to five hearts. He would have seen little chance to hurt four spades. He might have been allowed to play there or the opponents might have gone to five spades. It would be too much for East-West to keep on to six but they would have picked up 300 instead of just 100 points.

Bulb planting brings year round blooms

No garden flower gives so much for so little effort and money as the group of plants known as bulbs. With them, it is possible to have a succession of flowers all the year around.

Starting with the snowdrops, which seem to come with the melting snow, we go down the list: daffodils, tulips, iris, gladiolus, lilies, cannas, tuberous begonias, etc., until dahlias draw the curtain to end the season in a burst of colors.

Calvin J. Caldwell, county extension agent, says the winter months may also be cheerful with color by anyone who has a sunny window. It is no wonder that this group of plants is finding more and more favor by all gardeners.

A true bulb is composed of a bud containing in it the flower in miniature. The true bulb is made up of overlapping fleshy leaves which cover the developing flower parts. Among them we have the lily, made up of loose scales, each capable of developing flowering plants, and the tight-scaled types which appear to be solid, such as the tulip, narcissus, onion, hyacinth, and others.

The gladiolus is the best example of a corm. Here the structure is solid and is not made up of fleshy leaves. It blooms for a single season and an entirely new corm develops to take its place. In addition to this, it produces small corms called cormels around its base which will later develop into corms if allowed to grow another year.

An example of a true tuber is the potato; it has "eyes" or buds over its surface that develop into new plants. The dahlia, a tuberous root, sprouts from buds located only on the neck, or that small portion connecting the tubers to the mother plant. Each forms new tubers each year, but the thickened root of the tuberous begonia lasts from year to year.

This group of plants is planted in the spring, whereas the tulip, narcissus, crocus, snowdrop, hyacinth, scillas, and winter aconite, are planted early enough in the fall for the root system to develop before the ground freezes. The first few weeks in October seem best for Little Rock and vicinity.

For further information, study Leaflet No. 255, revised, "Flowering Bulbs and Corms," which may be obtained from your local county Cooperative Extension Office.

Anyone for Record Breaking?

It's a big fad around here to break a silly record, like holding a kiss longer than anyone else, or a college dorm floor keeping the hall phone in continuous use for five days and nights, no silences, no hang-ups.

I'm looking for a new record to break—and I'm really not for taking the longest shower in history or playing ping-pong 88 hours.

Could you suggest one that doesn't need all that exertion or mess up your sleep?—LAZY RECORD BREAKER

DEAR LRB:

Why don't you write a mile-long letter? If you use adding machine rolls and take a month, you could easily break the 1964 record of a Brooklyn girl who wrote a six-tenth-mile letter to her soldier boyfriend in Korea. —SUE NOTE FROM HELEN: But no one can top the world's record for SHORTEST letter exchange: Victor Hugo, on holiday, wanted to know how his new novel, "Les Misérables" was doing. To his publisher, he wrote, "I" The reply, "I"—H.

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I observe people as a hobby. And I've come onto something: About 70 per cent of extremely overweight people are conspicuously knock-kneed. My question is: Are knock-kneed persons born with a tendency to get fat (something in their cell distribution, perhaps, as most have unusually large hips and waists, smaller shoulders) or does their weight push their legs out of line?—DARWIN

DEAR DAR:

Tell you what you do: take your tally to the research department of your local college and maybe you'll be the instigator of a new "weighting game." —HELEN

DAR:

What Mom means is she doesn't know, but wishes she did. Me too!—SUE

P.S. Here's one more theory: extreme knock-knees might make running or other forms of exercise difficult. Thus the person would tend to fatten up, especially around waist and hips?—HELEN AND SUE

DEAR SUE:

Is there room for one more argument in favor of girls taking typing in school? Two years ago I would have cheered

"College and Career Bound" in her ambition to be free from typewriters, as she sought a less typically female career. (The old "Yes, but can you type?" thing.) But I would have been dead wrong! I too despised the thought of office work and shunned practical business courses in high school.

I went to college on a scholarship and found myself in need of extra income. When you're looking for part-time student work, you aren't offered fascinating positions. If you have no skills, you end up waiting tables (though I found that requires skill, too—I dropped a lot of dishes!)

I discovered then that a steady flow of college graduates head for business schools, which are NOT free. I also learned office work can be very satisfying—and it leads to even more interesting careers.

As Helen said, typing should be a required course for both boys and girls, in grade school. I'm foolish to pass up a saleable skill when you can learn for nothing. As for getting stuck in an undesirable job, the words, "I resign" are great liberators.—PATRICIA

DEAR PAT:

I know when I'm licked! All you typists' beautiful, well-written, neat, readable arguments convinced me. Guess what? I've enrolled in a college typing class.

QWERTY-POUY! (That's my typewriter's way of saying THANK YOU.)—SUE

DEAR TYPISTS ALL:

Here's Mama's Thank You, too! You readers stepped in where parents made no headway... and guess who will be doing final drafts of the column by Christmas!—HELEN

Div. 7AA sports news

The Div. 7AA football championship may be settled on the seventh weekend as the state's top Class AA contest of the week will send the preseason favorite Magnolia Panthers into the home den of the challenging Malvern Leopards. Both teams have clean conference slates.

Magnolia, ranked No. 2 in state AA circles, has a 6-0 season mark and a 3-0 league record. Malvern, ranked No. 3 has a 5-1 season record and a 4-0 league mark. The Leopards only loss was an opening game defeat by Hot Springs, No. 1 ranked team in the state.

The Panthers will pit their pass oriented offense against the Leopards' predominately ground rushing attack. The Leopards have gained 1,465 yards rushing in six contests. The Panthers have gained 1,124 yards rushing and 481 yards passing.

Leading the Malvern ground game is J.R. Ross. He has 1,001 yards rushing, has scored 9 touchdowns, 18 extra points, and one field goal. R. David has four touchdowns.

Magnolia has a balanced attack directed by quarterback Ken Barker. Garret Smith and Marnes Moore led the running backs and split end Marvin Lindsey has been the chief pass target. Ten players have shared in scoring touchdowns for Magnolia. Only four players have scored for Malvern.

Longhorns prepare for Big Red Tide

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

That "click" you heard was the lock closing on the Texas practice field gates as the Longhorns prepare for the Big Red Tide from Oklahoma.

Texas Coach Darrell Royal says the practice field and dressing room are off-limits "for secrecy...so we can get at our business a little better."

Texas' "business" is to go up Saturday in the Cotton Bowl against what Royal says is "probably" the best Oklahoma team he has seen in 16 years and "certainly" the equal of last year's Sooner team which bombed the 'Horns 48-27.

Royal says Oklahoma's Wishbone was the carbon copy of the one Texas runs except Sooner ballcarriers "jump farther sideways and run faster in a straight line. We're running the same type thing but theirs looks different because they have different people running it. With their speed, they get in the crease faster."

At Fort Worth, Texas Christian Coach Billy Tophill promoted sophomore Terry Drennan to first team safety.

Drennan, a quarterback until last week, played most of the game against Arkansas Saturday although he did not start. Drennan replaced senior Richard Wiseman who was burned badly by Arkansas quarterback Joe Ferguson.

An injury to regular safety Harold Muckleroy forced the move of Drennan from offense to defense. Muckleroy suffered a head injury against Texas-Ar-

Magnolia has scored 164 points and Malvern 137 points.

On defense Magnolia has yielded but 420 yards on the ground and 403 yards in the air. Malvern has given up 790 yards on the ground and 633 yards in the air.

Malvern's Ross continues as the league's leading scorer with 75 points.

Other games this week Crossett goes to Camden in 7AA action while Arkadelphia travels to Conway, Hope goes to Stamps, and Fairview is host to Fordyce in non-loop games.

Results from last week saw Magnolia defeat Arkadelphia 28-7; Malvern downed Fairview 28-7; Hope edged Crossett 18 to 13; Camden lost to Helena 19-0, and Ashdown lost to Prescott 19-7.

Magnolia and Ashdown joined Malvern in passing the 1,000 yard mark in rushing. Crossett continued to be the passing leader. Magnolia leads in defense against the rush and Ashdown leads in defense against the pass. Magnolia leads in defense against scoring allowing 34 points.

lington and has been ordered by doctors to give up football.

"We hated to shift Terry to defense," said Tophill. "However, we've got to have some quick help in our secondary and that means getting the 11 best players on the field at one time. If something happened to our quarterback (Kent Marshall), we would have to reevaluate the situation at that time."

At Arkansas, Coach Frank Broyles was still marveling over the Razorbacks' remarkable comeback against TCU.

"This is the third week in a row that we've come from behind," Broyles said. "That should help you down the line. It showed that you can come from behind."

At Rice, defensive coach Charlie Bailey praised his troops for their showing despite a 12-6 loss to LSU.

Bailey said LSU fans helped get his team fired up.

"They were yelling at us going into the stadium, calling us Tiger Bait," Bailey said. "We got ready to play just walking across the parking lot."

Pirates pin hopes on Doc Ellis

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates are going to steal a leaf from the book of the Cincinnati Reds and try to win the National League pennant today with the help of a sore-arm pitcher—Doc Ellis.

The Pirates hope they have better luck than the Reds.

Cincinnati pinned its hopes Monday on the ailing right arm of Gary Nolan, but the pressure of going all-out against the power-packed Pittsburgh lineup took its toll.

Nolan could manage only six innings. His arm stiffened and he left with a one-run lead that the Pirates overcame to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five pennant playoff.

"I went as hard as I could for as long as I could," said the dejected Nolan, who had pitched 15 innings since the All-Star Game in July. "I just ran out of gas. I couldn't afford to continue."

Ellis' story is almost a carbon copy. The 27-year-old right-hander has a chronic pitching elbow condition. He went six innings Sept. 30 but it was his first start since Sept. 13.

The Pirates' 3-2 victory Monday was keyed by outfielder Rennie Stennett and catcher Manny Sanguillen and relief pitcher Bruce Kison. Ever-reliable Dave Giusti came on to check the Reds' big bats after Pittsburgh wiped out a 2-0 Cincinnati lead.

Stennett made the first big play. Cincinnati's Johnny Bench tripled leading off the fourth. The Reds already led 2-0 and it looked as if they were out to get another run.

Pirates' starter Nelson Briles got Tony Perez on a nice, running back-to-the-plate catch in short left by shortstop Gene Alley. He then walked Denis Menke. The Reds now had runners at the corners with one out. Cesar Geronimo hit a fly ball to Stennett in left, and the outfielder gunned down Bench trying to score after the catch.

It was a perfect one-bounce, on-the-money throw to Sanguillen. "That beat us," said Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson, who still insisted the playoff would go five games.

You'd have to see it to believe it

HOUSTON (AP) — It's good that the Houston-Oakland pro football game was on national television Monday night—you'd have to see it to believe it.

Quarterback Daryle Lamonica finally got Oakland rolling with touchdown pass plays of 16 and 27 yards and George Blanda, a former Oiler, kicked two field goals in a 34-0 rout before 51,278 in the Astrodome.

But by the time the Raiders made it a runaway with three fourth-quarter touchdowns—two of them set up by interceptions, more than half of the crowd had left in disgust at the performance.

The unhappy mood spread to the TV audience. The Astro-dome stat crew estimated 75 calls came in from as far away as Canada, blasting everything from the Oilers to the television commentary.

The Oilers, getting their first chance at the Monday night spectacle since 1970, got a severe case of stage fright and stuttered to only 69 yards in total net offense—their worst offense showing in history.

The Oakland defense, ranked first in the AFC in pass defense, picked off five Oiler passes and dropped several other possible interceptions.

The Raiders, who lost four of four fumbles, kept plugging and finally got their offense started.

"I told them at the half all we have to do is settle down and something will come our way," Oakland Coach John Madden said. "On offense, so many untimely things happened to us. They had a good pass rush. They went all out."

Field goals of 46 and 35 yards by Blanda and a 16-yard touchdown pass to Fred Biletnikoff gave Oakland a 13-0 lead going into the fourth quarter when the bottom fell out on the Oilers.

Lamonica hit rookie Mike Siani for a 27-yard TD to open the last period and interceptions by Nemiah Wilson and Otis Sistrunk set up the final two TDs—a 14-yard run by Clarence Davis and a 2-yard pass from Ken Stabler to tight end Bob Moore.

The last two TDs were only 29 seconds apart.

Typical of the Oilers' performance was the second quarter when defensive end Greg Sampsom fell on an Oakland fumble at the Raider two-yard line.

Instead of taking it in, the Oilers lost 15 yards on two plays and had an attempted field goal blocked by Art Thoms, who also intercepted a pass.

NBA opens season tonight

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer

The National Basketball Association opens its 27th season tonight—with Wilt Chamberlain, but apparently without Willis Reed, Bob Rule, Archie Clark and Lennie Wilkens; with Kansas City-Omaha, but without Cincinnati; and with Rick Barry, but without Billy Cunningham and Julius Erving.

Chamberlain, the 7-foot-2 veteran who led the Lakers to the NBA championship last season, resolved his contractual difficulties with Los Angeles Monday and may be ready for the Lakers' season opener Wednesday night.

Eight NBA teams begin their 82-game schedules tonight. The New York Knicks, beaten by Los Angeles in the 1971-72 championship finals, host Seattle, while Philadelphia is at Chicago, Atlanta plays at Buffalo and Baltimore opens at Cleveland.

The Lakers open defense of their NBA championship in Omaha the following night against the Kansas City-Omaha Kings, the franchise which was shifted from Cincinnati after last season. Other NBA clubs open later in the week.

The American Basketball Association schedule begins Thursday night, with the defending champion Indian Pacers visiting Memphis to play the newly-renamed Tams. Also Thursday, Carolina meets Virginia at Richmond and Denver is at Utah. Other teams open play Friday and Saturday.

Chamberlain, who still had a year to go on his $250,000-a-year, two-year contract, had sought to have the pact renegotiated. However, a settlement apparently has been reached but details as to the amount or length of the contract were not disclosed.

Reed, the 6-10 center who led the Knicks to the NBA championship in 1969-70 but has been bothered by tendonitis in his knees the past two years, suffered a thigh bruise in pre-season training and was placed on the disabled list Monday. He'll miss at least the Knicks' first five games, being eligible to return Oct. 21.

Rule and Clark are having contract problems. Clark is reportedly asking upwards of $300,000 a year from the Baltimore Bullets, while Rule wants a hefty pay hike from the Philadelphia 76ers.

Football Violence: Cure, Symptom Or Disease?

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It is autumn, the mellow time of year, when leaves turn many-hued, the wind picks up a nice nip and massive linemen crash into each other like furious rhinoceroses.

We have come to accept all this as ineluctable life. Thus we have glorified football in this country. We have placed it on a pedestal by the lever of symbolism. We have become convinced that it mirrors our violent times, is a metaphor for war and is evidence of man's genetic fate.

"I think the nature of man is to be aggressive and football is a violent game," said Vince Lombardi, the exalted late professional football coach.

Such amateur psychology has been part of the campaign, wittingly or otherwise, to excuse and rationalize the brutality of football. Lombardi's quote was taken from the book, "The First 50 Years: A Celebration of the National Football League in Its 50th Season." It was produced by the NFL.

The book, a typical football celebration of violence, quotes Konrad Lorenz, author of "On Aggression": "There is, in the modern community, no legitimate outlet for aggressive behavior. . . . (So) the main function of sport today lies in the cathartic discharge of aggressive urge."

Lately, it has been taken for granted that man is naturally pretty beastly and that in those rare instances when he is not pummeling his fellow man (or wishing to), it is only because he has momentarily been diverted by something equally primitive, such as sex or food or bowels.

Not so, says Alexander Alland Jr., associate professor of anthropology at Columbia University, in his recently published book, "The Human Imperative."

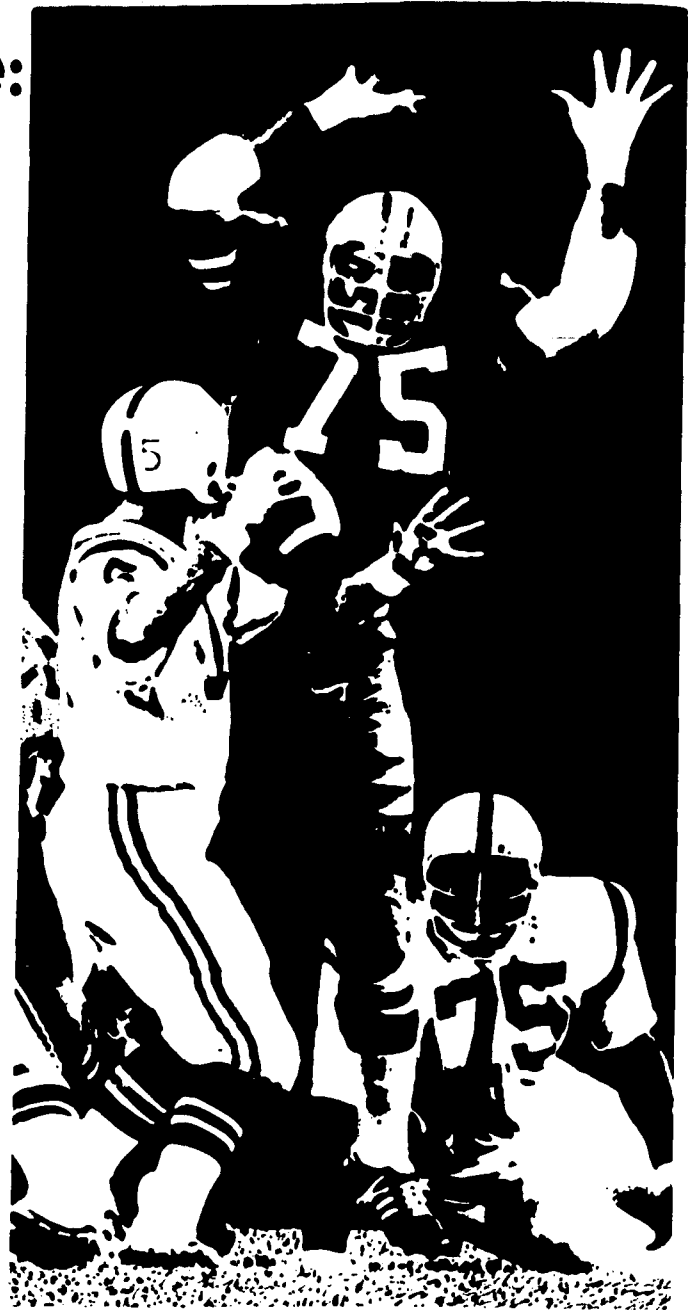

He flatly rejects biological determinism and with it the theory that man inherently thirsts for mayhem. He does not of course, deny that man is capable of aggressive responses but believes they are learned—like extending a pinky when drinking—and not instinctive.

Alland's work with isolated African tribes such as the Abn and Semai provides him with his evidence. When a Semai is angry, for instance, he will throw his own property around much like a linebacker flinging his bulk on a quarterback. But the Semai is careful not to hurt anyone. "Even so, such behavior is frowned upon," writes Alland, "because it scares people."

Alland does not deny that violence is rampant nowadays. But he rejects theories that man is naturally warlike, thus needing violent games to mirror and reinforce the brutality of our world. Where one anthropologist called man the "weapon maker," Alland calls him the "symbol maker." "It is the symbolic process which allows man to first think of and then create tools, among them weapons," he writes.

If man will look at his social processes and the development of his individual personalities, then the "needs" for war and aggression—in modern times most usually caused by politico-economic factors—will dissolve, Alland argues.

Finally, he disputes football theorists like Paul Brown who say that football is a healthful release of our aggressions. Brown says in "The First 50 Years," "I've known women who thought football was worthless and brutal. But they just don't understand the nature of the male. . . . The fact is that young men enjoy (the big collisions). Nothing is going to stop it. If we could just have a Super Bowl between Russia and the United States, instead of all those tanks and ballistic missiles, things would be a lot better."

"Sacking" the quarterback.

Alland: "It has been suggested that play can be substituted for war through the institutionalization of aggressive games. Such a solution is likely to be unsuccessful."

"Games may, in fact, be used as an institutionalized means of preparing men for war (Gen. Douglas MacArthur said precisely that). There is no evidence that game playing lowers aggression in itself. In fact, there is contrary evidence. Participants and spectators of violent sports may feel a surge of aggression in themselves as a result of direct stimulation."

"The belief that one can offer psychological cures for social problems is a delusion; perhaps it even diverts attention from the real causes of war."

Southern Cal still No. 1

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Southern California and Oklahoma held onto the top spots in The Associated Press college football poll today while Alabama moved past Ohio State into third place and upset-minded Auburn cracked the Top Ten for the first time this season.

Southern Cal's Trojans received 34 first-place votes and 964 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters following their fifth consecutive triumph, a 30-21 victory over Stanford.

Oklahoma, which had a week off before this Saturday's annual war with Texas, pulled down 15 first-place votes and 912 points.

The only change among the first eight teams came in the 34 spots, where Alabama climbed from fourth to third with 677 points on the heels of a 25-7 trouncing of Georgia.

The Crimson Tide changed places with Ohio State, down from third to fourth after a come-from-behind 35-18 win over California. The Buckeyes received the remaining first-place vote and 625 points.

The 5-6-7-8 positions again went to Michigan, a 35-7 victor over Navy; idle Nebraska; Notre Dame, which blanked Michigan State 16-0, and Louisiana State, a 12-6 winner over Rice.

Auburn's second straight upset, a 19-13 triumph over Mississippi following a victory over Tennessee the previous week, vaulted the Tigers from 17th to ninth while Texas, hard-pressed to beat Utah State 27-12, slipped from ninth to 10th.

Auburn's meteoric rise also dropped Tennessee, Washington and Colorado one spot each to 11th, 12th and 13th. UCLA remained 14th, trailed by Penn State, Air Force, Stanford, Iowa State, Oklahoma State and Arkansas.

Oklahoma State reached the Top Twenty for the first time this season while Arkansas made it back after dropping out following an opening-game loss to Southern Cal.

Campy is suspended in league playoffs

DETROIT (AP)—An eye for an eye and a shortstop for a shortstop.

American League President Joe Cronin announced Monday that Oakland shortstop Campy Campaneris has been suspended for the remainder of the AL playoffs.

But almost before Detroit Tiger manager Billy Martin had a chance to smile at the decision, his shortstop Ed Brinkman was ruled out for the season due to a back injury.

Brinkman, who set major league records for least errors (7) and highest fielding percentage (.990) for shortstops this season, was X-rayed Monday and found to have a ruptured disc in his lower back.

Team physician Dr. Clarence Livengood reported Brinkman will enter the hospital Thursday, be operated on Friday, and be hospitalized for a week to 10 days.

Meanwhile, Tiger general manager Jim Campbell said he will ask Cronin for permission to put rookie second baseman John Knox on the roster as Brinkman's replacement. Martin said earlier he wanted Frank Howard to fill the spot but that such a request was denied by Cronin.

Howard, slugging first baseman-outfielder, was purchased from the Texas Rangers in September and thus not eligible for post-season play. He worked out with the Tigers Monday.

"Brinkman can't be replaced," Martin moaned.

Trainer Bill Behn said Brinkman first hurt his back on the last road trip to Milwaukee and said as late as a week ago, "I think the trouble has passed."

Brinkman played Saturday's playoff opener but was replaced by second baseman Dick McAuliffe Sunday, with Tony Taylor taking over at second.

Tombstones center of a controversy

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — As the Des Moines Parks Board prepared to reach a decision today on whether to return two controversial homemade tombstones to the graves of Cynthia Frederick's children, a councilman expressed concern for the city's reputation.

"I want to see the proper conclusion reached on the incident itself," said Councilman George Whitmer, "and I'm terribly concerned about the city. I don't want to see the name dragged down when perhaps there's no reason for it."

At issue are two concrete markers which were removed from the graves of the 21-year-old mother's infant children by municipal cemetery workers.

City officials appear to be caught by a wave of public sentiment. Some indicated they will switch their allegiance from enforcing a city ordinance to supporting the plight of Mrs. Frederick.

Park Board President James Morris Jr. said Monday officials have "done a lot of soul searching. I think we'll grant permission for the stones to be set."

"I'd be enraged if it had been my children this had happened to," said Mayor Richard Olson.

LEADER REPORTED ILL

TAIPEI (AP) — President Chiang Kai-shek was not present today for Nationalist China's 61st National Day rally, the first time he has failed to show up since his government came to Taiwan in 1949.

There were reports last month that the 84-year-old leader was ill. Sources close to the president said his physicians have ordered him to shun outdoor activities to avoid causing any physical complications.

Nationalist leaders, however, have said he is well.

Campaign strategy:

Nixon behind the gun

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon apparently intends to keep his personal campaign schedule light—and his Republican profile low—right through the election four weeks from today.

Herbert G. Klein, director of communications for the administration, said Nixon will do substantially less personal campaigning in 1972 than he did two years ago.

That, of course, was a year in which he was not running but was campaigning for Republican congressional candidates.

Klein told newsmen Monday that, while Nixon's campaign schedule will be increasing in the final weeks, "I don't expect a full-time, full-blown effort in any week I can foresee."

If there is anything approaching an intensive road campaign, he said, it will come during the week before the Nov. 7 balloting.

Klein said that represents no change in strategy.

But the President and his spokesmen had given the impression that once Congress adjourned, as it is expected to do next weekend, he would be putting in considerably more time on the road.

His only campaign travel this week is scheduled Thursday, a one-day trip to Atlanta.

Two days of Nixon campaigning are likely next week.

Klein said the option for more intensive campaigning remains open. He declined to speculate as to exactly how many days Nixon will spend on the road, saying that no firm schedules have been set.

But every indication is that Nixon and his strategists have decided things are fine as they are with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and nearly three dozen proxy campaigners doing the road work while the President stays close to the White House.

"Except for the District of Columbia, we're ahead in every poll we see," Klein said. "I don't think that means we're going to carry every state." He said the outlook is for close contests in some major states, mentioning California, Massachusetts and Michigan as examples.

VISIT PROJECT—Leaders of the fund drive, and research personnel, look over the new testing facilities and records of bulls. They are left to right: Dr. Carl Lueker, extension animal husbandman, Vincent W. Foster, chairman of local fund drive, Cecil M. Bittle, assistant director of Experiment Station, Dr. E.M. Cralley, director of Agricultural Experimental Stations, Dr. C.E. Brown, project leader, Marion Crank, chairman of the fund drive, Ned Purtle, co-chairman of local drive. (See article at right.)

Contributors for barn are listed

This past summer a group of producers and business men with Marion Crank, of Foreman, chairman took upon themselves the challenge of raising some $6,000 to expand the existing 40 bull testing barn to a 60 bull unit at the Southwest Branch Experiment Station near Hope.

According to Cecil M. Bittle, assistant director in charge, this goal was accomplished and the unit was ready Aug. 1 when 24 breeders delivered 60 bulls to the Station for testing. Contributors within the Hope trade territory were:

Anderson-Frazier Insurance Agency, Anthony Hardwood Lumber Co., Cattlemen's Association, Citizens National Bank, Crow-Burlingame Co., Delight Egg Farm, Downtown Merchants Association, Farm Bureau, First National Bank, Foster Realty Co., Hempstead County Farmers Association, Hope Builders' Supply, Hope Hardware, International Paper Co., J.A. Gunter, J.B. Cook Auto Machine Service, Nashville Production Credit Association, Ned Purtle, Pineview Animal Clinic, Red River Feed & Seed, Tol-E-TeX.

The breeders consign the bulls to the University of Arkansas, Southwest Branch Experiment Station for a period of six months for the purpose of feeding the, six to nine months old, bulls to determine the rate of gain and feed efficiency of each bull. In order to determine these traits each bull is fed to capacity in individual stalls and weighed every 28 days for a total of 140-day test period.

A degree of the performance of these traits are inherited there by enabling the producer to use these bulls, or the herd-sires from which they came, to upgrade the performance of his herd. Over the years this has the effect of upgrading the cattle, as a whole, in Southwest Arkansas.

All factors put together cattle have been upgraded in Southwest Arkansas over the past 10 years as the following table indicates, when a comparison is made between the first test and the tenth one. The same type of ration and management practices is performed each year.

Dedication of state's 2,500th tree farm set

Dedication of Arkansas' 2500th tree farm is planned for Oct. 19 at W.G. Fischer farm near Ashdown. Sen. John L. McClellan is tentatively scheduled to speak, along with Congressman-elect Ray Thornton. The ceremony is scheduled to begin at 10 A.M., according to Virgil Cothren, chairman of the Arkansas Tree Farm Committee.

Fischer's 240-acre tree farm is located about seven miles northwest of Ashdown and may be located by following directional signs from Ashdown, that will be posted on Highways 108 and 234.

The Tree Farm System recognizes Fischer for certain prescribed minimum forest management practices. Fischer has far exceeded these minimums and now become one of 2500 in Arkansas and part of over 3,825,000 acres certified in Arkansas since the program's inception in 1941.

Local arrangements are being handled by John Swilley, Box 486, Ashdown, Arkansas. Either write or call him at 808-3711 for complimentary tickets for the bar-b-que lunch that will follow the dedication ceremonies. The public has been invited to attend.

Mold scare is exaggerated

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I read an article saying that mold on food can cause cancer. It quoted a doctor in Germany saying that malignant tumors are created by fungus and molds which grow on many types of foods, including corn, rice, bread, jams, jellies and other common foods. He claimed that if the housewife scraped away the mildew on bread or on jam that invisible fungus spores would be just inches away and would cause trouble.

I have often scraped mold away from bread and then toasted the remainder and removed the mold on jams and jellies. Or I've cut off half a potato or tomato and used the good half. Now I am frightened. Is it all that bad. Is the family kitchen such a monster.

I am also a cheese buff. I buy the best because I am a gourmet cook, and I know that cheese stores rub off the mold and then sell the cheese. If it's so bad, the cheese stores certainly need supervision.

Dear Reader—If the only cause for cancers were mold and fungus, these diseases would have been cured or prevented long ago. Let me remind you that life-saving penicillin was obtained from the mold on bread. I don't advocate eating mold or fungi (unless you're talking about mushrooms which are giant fungi) but I'm afraid that you've read an exaggerated report that is not accepted by the medical scientific community. In other words, it's more of a scare article than an article dealing with established facts.

Excessive ingestion of yeast can sometimes cause some problems with digestion but other than that there isn't real proof that eating foods that have had the mold removed will cause any difficulties, and even that problem is relatively rare.

Dear Dr. Lamb — What would you think if you were in a hospital deathly sick and all the visitors were standing around puffing on cigarettes, cigars and pipes up and down the hall until you could hardly see. My wife went through this for several weeks before she passed away. Why hospitals allow this is beyond me. However, doctors come into the sick room puffing on cigarettes or a rotten cigar too.

Dear Reader — I think it's terrible. In this situation the family would be entirely justified to ask for a "no visitors" sign to be posted on the patient's door. Short of this a "no smoking" sign should be posted above the bed.

In my opinion, doctors should not smoke while they are seeing patients, either in their consultation room and most certainly not in a public hospital within the sick-room of the patient. Also, I think patients owe doctors this same courtesy. I personally dislike having a patient sit down across the desk from me and blowing smoke in my face. I'm sure many other doctors feel the same way.

Too many visitors when you are sick are a pain in the neck. It is no time to have to play host.

McGovern to announce a plan to end the VN war

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

Sen. George McGovern will go on television tonight to announce his plan to end the Vietnam war and predicts that anyone who watches "will vote for the Democratic candidate on Nov. 7."

Other developments as the election campaign moved into its final four weeks included:

—A Washington newspaper story quoting law enforcement authorities on an alleged Republican sabotage campaign against Democratic presidential candidates.

—An appearance by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew at an extravaganza in Anaheim, Calif., where he said Sen. McGovern "tries to obfuscate the issues in emotional rhetoric and reckless and groundless insinuations of corruption and scandal in high places."

—Democratic vice presidential candidate Sargent Shriver's statement that Americans "would prefer honest politics to that tricky stuff."

—Disclosure that President Nixon plans to maintain a light campaign scheduled through the election on Nov. 7.

McGovern supporters sought to create interest Monday in McGovern's television appearance in speeches marking the fourth anniversary of Nixon's 1968 statement that "those who have had a chance for four years and could not produce peace should not be given another chance."

McGovern's war speech will be aired nationally by CBS television and other television outlets at 7:30 p.m. EDT and 6:30 p.m. CDT, and will be repeated at 7:30 p.m. MDT and PDT.

In Detroit Monday night, McGovern said talk of an impending peace settlement under the Nixon administration is "just election-eve talk."

The Washington Post today said White House aide Ken W. Clawson acknowledged fabricating a letter which damaged the presidential campaign of Democratic Sen. Edmund S. Muskie during the New Hampshire primary election. Clawson denies admitting the letter was his.

But the newspaper said the alleged fabricated letter was part of a Republican sabotage campaign.

Vice President Agnew addressed an overflow crowd in Anaheim's 9,000-seat convention center following a parade of personalities ranging from Frank Sinatra and John Wayne to the Southern California Mormon choir.

He said McGovern's recent statements proved he had broken a promise last May to "avoid inflammatory rhetoric."

Shriver, in Pittsburgh, said that under Nixon everything that goes up should be going down and everything that should be going down goes up—referring to wages and prices and to the problem of drug addiction and war.

He said Nixon representatives make contradictory statements on whether there will be tax increases.

MAN IS CHARGED WITH 'THEFT' OF LSU TICKET

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — There's no doubting the zeal of state attorneys in pursuing justice, especially when a case involves a ticket to an LSU football game, something sacred in Louisiana.

Amos McIntyre borrowed a student's $7 ticket, but wound up being arrested, and never did get to see the game.

A lower court absolved McIntyre, noting he had permission to use the ticket.

J.C. JAMES

J.C. James guest speaker at club

Home fires, not the logs in the fireplace kind, were the topic during the Lion's weekly luncheon hour Monday at the Town and Country Restaurant.

Lion Jim Cobb, program chairman also Hope fire chief presented J.C. James of the Fire Safety Products Co. of Little Rock, who presented a slide show on fires in the home.

Oct. 8-14 is designated as Fire Prevention Week and the program was timely and created an awareness of the need for fire prevention.

The slide program disclosed that fires in the home occur every 57 seconds over the nation and that over 90 per cent of deaths from fire are in home fires. Many causes and defenses were presented but one of the most shocking facts disclosed was that there is only four minutes from the start of a fire for fire victims to get out safely.

Roger Nunn of the Prudential Life Insurance Co. was the guest of Lion Olen Overturn and Gene Trussell of Shreveport, La. was the guest of his father Lion C. "ald Trussell.

Black boycott to end today

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — Joe Walker of Texarkana, a spokesman for black parents of students who have been boycotting class at Arkansas High School here for a week, said Monday night the boycott would end today, but he said blacks would seek relief from conditions at the school in federal court.

He said blacks had retained the Little Rock law firm of Walker, Kaplan and Mays to file suit for damages against "the school officials in their private capacity and to do everything else necessary to alleviate the slavery-time conditions that prevail" in the school district.

He also said a group of black parents was preparing a report to seek withholding of all federal and state funds until "discriminatory practices are alleviated."

Before issuing his statement on ending the boycott and the filing of the suit, Walker spoke to the School Board for 20 minutes and presented the board with a list of grievances and demands that blacks wanted met.

The board voted following the 30-minute meeting to take the list under advisement.

Walker told the board that the situation at the school was almost if there was martial law. He said black students were under pressure at the school, charging that the present system was against black students and parents. He said any incident at the school between black and whites was classified as a riot, and he said the trend at the school was to "police-type action."

City police patrolled halls and the campus most of last week.

Walker also said the school principal was not able "to deal with or administer a school program with complex social problems of an integrated school system."

The board meeting had to be moved to the school gymnasium because a crowd of about 300 showed up for the meeting. School Board President Hubert Easley had to warn the crowd against further outbursts after some white members of the audience jeered Walker during his presentation.

Among other things, the blacks want black teachers for black history courses, proportionate black representation in school organizations and activities, and an equal number of black teachers in proportion to the number of black students.

There were 304 students absent from class Monday out of an enrollment of about 1,300. It has been estimated that about 80 per cent of the black students are participating in the boycott. Absences have run from a high of 416 on the first day of the boycott to 287 last Friday. Normal absences run 65 to 75 this time of year.

Supt. E. D. Trice said earlier Monday that students who were absent who could not show they were sick or had a death in the family would not be allowed to make up work they missed.

82-YEAR-OLD IS ENTERING COLLEGE

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — Roy D. Ribble, at 82, is back in college and says it would be a poor world indeed "if I didn't have courses to look forward to."

The retired New York City dentist filled the teeth of Wall Street financiers and Broadway celebrities before ending a 40-year career.

Ribble is taking two extension courses now at the University of California, not far from the home where he and his wife Ruth have settled in La Jolla.

"I'm the only one of my friends who would dream of going, but I can't understand why more people don't go to school."

Controversial editor is out of hiding, attempt to arrest him is foiled

JACKSON, Tenn. (AP) — The Tennessee Court of Criminal Appeals has taken under advisement the question of whether defense lawyers may see prosecution materials in the Elton Hayes case.

Hayes, 17, died in police custody last Oct. 15 and nine law enforcement officers face trial on various charges in his death.

They have not come to trial, however, because of a complicated set of legal moves set off by a far-reaching discovery order issued by Memphis Criminal Court Judge W. Otis Higgs Jr.

The Appeals Court, sitting in Jackson, heard two hours of arguments Monday on whether lawyers for the indicted policemen will be given materials used by the district attorney in preparing his case.

Dist. Atty. Phil Canale has appealed the Higgs ruling.

The testimony was the second time the case has come before the Appeals Court. The court upheld Higgs' order earlier by a 2-1 decision, but the state Supreme Court overturned the ruling in July and ordered it to again consider the case.

The State of Tennessee, which is backing Canale, contends that independent investigations of cases by both the prosecution and the defense are necessary to safeguard those on trial.

Without that, any errors in a police investigation would go unchallenged, the state argues. The court gave no indication of when it will rule in the question.

The Hayes case stems from a highway chase that ended at a police roadblock. Officers first said Hayes died of injuries received when a pickup truck carrying three youths crashed at the roadblock.

A medical examiner, however, rules that Hayes died from beating and listed the death as homicide, leading to the suspension of nearly 40 city and sheriff's officers and the eventual indictment of nine of them.

Now is the Time for All Good Landowners To Come to the Aid of Their Country

A Third Forest is now taking shape in the South... but it should be planted faster.

Why?

Studies show the South must provide trees for the majority of the nation's forest products by the year 2000. That's more than twice the number of trees we are growing today.

The vast majority of forest land in the South - 72% - belongs to non-industrial private owners. Since most of this land is not growing as much timber as it could, it must be planted and properly managed to achieve maximum productivity.

To emphasize this far-reaching goal, the American Forestry Association with the assistance of the Southern Forest Resource Council is sponsoring a National Tree Planting Conference in New Orleans, October 22-26.

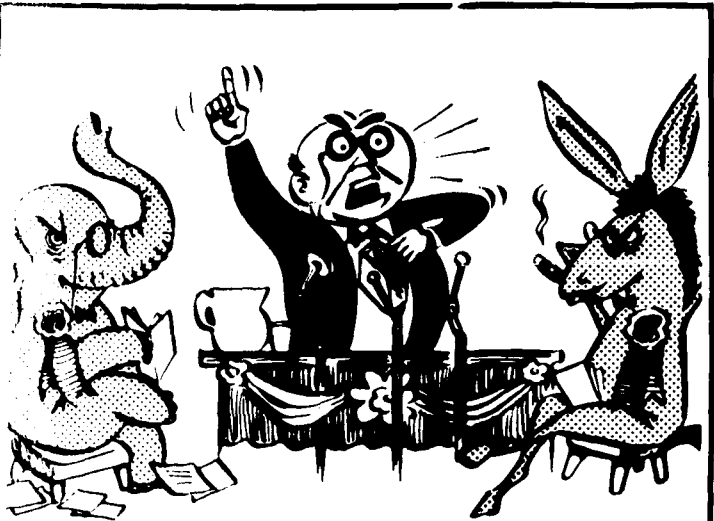

We think the purpose of the conference has been amply expressed by F.C. Gragg, vice president of International Paper Company and an American Forestry Association Director, who recently said, "Our aim is simple. We want to plant more trees."

You are invited to attend. If you would like more information on this important conference, write to Mr. Gragg at P.O. Box 2328, Mobile, Ala. 36601, or contact any local IP forester.
